Methodology

Liquidity and commission data are derived from London Stock Exchange monthly trading volume reports, and research coverage is sourced from FactSet. Liquidity data is sourced from Hardman's proprietary database, maintained for several years, constructed from London Stock Exchange trade data. Further details available in our October 2017 research 'Liquidity – little understood, even before MiFID II' <http://www.hardmanandco.com/docs/default-source/newsletters/hardman-co-article---liquidity-little-understood-even-before-mifid-ii---october-2017.pdf>

Research coverage data is sourced from FactSet, totalling current publishing analyst broker research coverage for each stock in the FTSE All-Share and FTSE AIM All-Share indices, and presenting as an average across each market capitalisation band. 'Current publishing analysts' is defined as the total number of research firms updating earnings estimates on each stock (FactSet's "Number of Analysts" on the main Estimates screen), up to 270 days old, including all brokers except for the following commissioned research providers: Hardman & Co, Edison Investment Research, Equity Development and Progressive Equity Research. Data is aggregated according to historic market capitalisation at each calendar month end. Averages are total number of publishing analysts for all stocks in each market capitalisation band, divided by number of companies in that band, both as at each calendar month end.
